ANTI-JEWISH PARTY RIOTS IN RUMANIA

1,000 Students Attack
Troops.

GOVERNMENT TO SUPPRESS CUZA PARTY

Bucharest, To-day.

Balked in an attempt to raise the siege by Government troops of 100 of their compatriots who were besieged in a barricaded residence, 1,000 Jassy student members of the anti-Jewish Cuza Party, entered and demolished the home of the Rumanian Minister of Interior, following the Government announcement of the suppression of the Cuza organization.

The number wounded in the clash between the armed guards and the Cuza members is unknown.

The disturbance is most significant as Jassy usually gives the lead to the rest of Rumania.

The besieged party subsequently surrendered.—Reuter.

Peace Pacts With Turkey.

JUGO-SLAVIA THE FOURTH
NATION

Belgrade, To-day.

Following the recent Turco-Greek, Turco-Rumanian and Turco-Bulgarian pacts, a five-year pact of friendship, between Jugoslavina and Turkey, for arbitration and conciliation, has been signed by the respective Foreign Ministers.

The pact provides for all differences between the two countries to be settled only by pacific means.

A permanent Commission of Conciliation, comprising five members, will be created, each country, naming one. The three others will be chosen, by mutual consent, from the nationals of other Powers.—Reuter.

U.S. INTEREST IN JAPANESE COTTON TRADE

Fear Spread Of Competition.

GROWTH OF CHINESE
TEXTILE INDUSTRY

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1881. Received November 28, 10.58 a.m.)

Washington, To-day.

United States Textile authorities are deeply interested in the outcome of the Indo-Japanese textile tariff conferences, as they believe that the permanent obstruction of Japanese cotton goods market will intensify Japanese-American competition in other world markets, particularly in Latin America, where Japanese traders are now most active.

There authorities also see the world situation as propitious to the growth of the Chinese textile industry for internal needs, and anticipate increased Japanese capital in Chinese mills on account of the low labour costs.—United Press, per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

U.S. BONDS RECOVER ON MARKETS

General Rise In Domestic Bonds.

STEEL OPERATIONS STEADY

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1881. Received November 28, 10.58 a.m.)

New York, To-day.

Wall Street observers expect that the market will recover shortly due to the fact that the United States Treasury is expected to handle the December financing satisfactorily. United States bonds, yesterday led a general rise in domestic bonds.

Treasury certificates and Liberty Bonds gained over half a point each.

Steel operations are steady and the world cotton consumption has increased.

WORLD COTTON CONSUMPTION INCREASED

The New York Cotton Exchange figures show that the world consumption of American cotton for October was 1,225,000 bales as compared with 1,196,000 bales for September and 1,205,000 bales for October last year.

The world stock of cotton at the end of October, including the un-picked portion of the crop, was 20,791,000 bales as compared with 22,462,000 at the end of September, 1932.—United Press, per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

BONDS BOLSTERED BY TREASURY.

December Re-Funding

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1881. Received November 28, 10.58 a.m.)

Washington, To-day.

The United States Treasury anticipates no difficulty in re-funding the U. S. $727,000,000 Government obligations which mature on December 15.

Re-financing is expected in the usual manner, perhaps at a slightly higher interest.

The Acting Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Henry Morgenthau, said that the Government had bolstered the bond market and had re-purchased U. S. $8,748,000 in Federal securities through the Federal Reserve, last week.—United Press, per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

JAPANESE SURVEY ALSO ALLEGED

London, To-day.

Confirmation of France's intention to strengthen her position in the Pacific is given by the report, published in the "London Herald" today, stating that France is studying a programme of seaplane and submarine bases in the French Pacific possessions.

Officials circles in Paris refuse to comment on the report.

According to the Brisbane correspondent of the paper, provision is likely to be made for large warships in new harbours, while a number of coastal forts are to be erected.

The correspondent adds that Japanese vessels have at some time, been seen examining every hook and cranny of the Pacific.

The Paris correspondent of the Daily Herald, upon making further enquiries was told in French official circles that the matter could not possibly be discussed.

The London Naval Treaty, to which France is not a party, bars Great Britain, the United States and Japan from increasing their fortifications in the Pacific.—Reuter.

The French occupation of the coral islands in the China Sea, situated between Indo-China, Borneo and the Philippines was officially announced on July 25. The occupation of the islands caused considerable speculation as to what France intended to do with them, particularly in Manila.

The occupation aroused protests from China and Japan. The latter claimed to have spent considerable capital in exploiting the resources of the island.

Significant Speech
At Funeral.

NAZI "MARTYR" HONOURED

Berlin, To-day.

The Reichswehr soldier, Schumacher, the victim of the Reichthunwinkler incident on the Austro-German border, on Friday, was given a State military funeral at Nuremberg yesterday afternoon.

Chancellor Hitler and General Blomberg, Minister of Defence, were present. The latter deposited a wreath on behalf of President Hindenburg.

Chancellor Hitler, in a speech, described Schumacher as a martyr for the German cause.

"If millions of our fellow-tribesmen across the frontier were able to freely raise their voices, they would solemnly break with the murderers of Schumacher and their principles," he said.

"The Sacrificial death of Schumacher must not become a source of embitterment but a source of firm faith in the homogeneity of all Germans."—Reuter.

London, To-day.

Regarding slum clearance, Sir Hilton Young, Minister of Health, said yesterday in the House of Commons that of 1717 local authorities who had received his circular, requiring the submission of schemes for the total elimination, within five years of all slums and the provision of alternative accommodation, all but 45 had now submitted programmes or had satisfied him that they were taking action.—British Wireless Service.

80 Japanese Guards Rout Manchukuo Train Bandits

Harbin, To-day.

Owing partly to the all-steel Pullman coaches, the casualties in the trans-Siberian train outrages near Taitshar, on Sunday night, were remarkably small. Only 10 passengers were seriously injured, while altogether eight coaches were wrecked. Eighty Japanese guards recaptured the kidnapped passengers and stormed and routed the bandits entrenched in a nearby blockhouse, from which they had poured a murderous fire on the helpless and freezing passengers. Four Japanese soldiers were killed and eight wounded.—Reuter.

The train was travelling at a speed of 50 m.p.h. when the accident occurred. The bandits had unbolts of the rails and, as a result, the train leapt the track and some-what down an embankment. It is estimated that about 600 passengers were on board at the time, including Major-General Takemami, Commander of the First Cavalry Brigade, who was unhurt.

CHIANG TO LEAVE ANTI-RED CAMPAIGN

Nanchang, To-day.

Marshal Chiang Kai-shek has received instructions from the Central Government to organize a punitive campaign against the Fukien rebels.

The instructions were issued to Marshal Chiang simultaneously with the issue of an order for the arrest of the rebel leaders, including Chen Ming-shu, Li Chai-sum and Eugene Chen.

Acting on the instructions, the Marshal has summoned the commanders of the various armies to Nanchang, where a military conference will be held early next month. The anti-Fukien expedition, it is learned, will mainly consist of strong detachments from the Central Government forces other than those now engaged in "Red" suppression in Kiangsi.

Besides instituting an effective blockade of the Fukien seaports, the Central Government military authorities are planning the dispatch of a strong Air Force to assist in operations against the rebels in Chekiang Fukien border districts.

It is learned from other sources that the Nanking Government will appoint Marshal Chiang Kai-shek as Commander-in-Chief of the anti-rebel expedition, leaving his present post, namely, Commandership of "Red" suppression in Kiangsi, Hupai and Hunan, to be taken up by General Liu Chi.

The announcement of the appointment will be made simultaneously with the issue of a punitive order against the rebels.—Central News Agency.

SOUND MONEY POLICY IN U.S. NOW LIKELY

SHARP SLUMP ON WALL STREET.

SILVER DECLINES HEAVILY
AS STERLING WEAKENS

New York, To-day.

A sharp slump in industrial and rails, and the low trading figure of 156,000 shares, were features of the New York Stock Market, yesterday. Several stocks plunged down 3 to 5 points.

Silver declined on the weakness of the sterling exchange. This weakness, together with the weakness of other commodities, is perhaps attributed to the conviction on the part of speculators that the "sound money" talkers are going to get somewhere.

The industrial average was down 3.51 to 95.77, while rails dropped 1.62 to 37.92. Utilities declined .87 to 23.73. Bonds showed strength, rising .35 to 80.25.

INDIA'S CURRENCY UNALTERED.

Rupee-Sterling Link

BRIDGE NOTES
Penalty Versus Game.
By A. F. STAPLETON HARRIS

One of the most difficult decisions a player is called upon to make in Bridge is whether to take what looks like being a substantial penalty or to proceed with the bidding to game, or even upon occasions to slam.

So many factors enter into the question—the state of the score, not only below but also above the line, vulnerability, psychology, whether if you proceed you will be out of your depth as you think your opponents are already, and, on the other hand, whether your opponents may not get their contract if you double them. All these things are material, and usually most, if not all, of them require very careful consideration.

The decision is difficult enough in ordinary rubber Bridge, but whereas in that case you often have a further opportunity of recovering from a mistake, in Duplicate Bridge it is much harder, as each hand is a separate unit, and one serious error, however well-intentioned, may make all the difference between success and defeat on the whole of a match, of a limited number of boards.

It is almost impossible to lay down any hard-and-fast rules to deal with this problem; one can only give broad outlines, which are based on principles of partly mathematical and partly psychological origin. These may be stated thus:

(a) At a score of love-all it is usually advisable to go for penalties instead of game if you think you can defeat the contract by not fewer than three tricks.

(b) Where only you are game in, take game and rubber if you can get it, unless you feel you can set the contract by at least three tricks.

(c) If both sides are vulnerable, take the penalties if you see the opponents being two down.

Sacrificial Bids.

On the reverse side of the picture, the mathematical result is the material one when it becomes a question of deliberately overbidding—i.e., making sacrificial bids—if the opponents seem likely to get a slam. This is the more obvious when you are not vulnerable and the opponents are. It is just a question of whether it will pay you to go down x tricks doubled to save a substantial bonus.

At Duplicate, yet another factor enters into the case, viz., confidence in the bidding ability of the other pair of your team in the other room. If you feel certain they will get the slam—if permitted by their opponents—that you see your opponents making for, then suffer any penalty less than the score they will make by the slam.

It is all quite easy to read, write, and talk about, but extremely difficult to put into practice. Correct decisions in the majority of these cases are the hall-mark of the expert.

Not long ago, in a friendly duplicate match, the following hands occurred.

Both sides vulnerable. Dealer East.

In Room I, the bidding went:
East South West North
No bid 1 Heart 2 Clubs Double and all passed.

West was three down on his contract:—900 to N.S.

N.S. congratulated themselves on this result; E-W. said nothing but thought a lot.

In Room II, the bidding was:
East South West North
No bid 1 Heart 2 Clubs Double
No bid 2 Diamonds No bid 2 Spades
No bid 3 Spades No bid 5 No-trumps
No bid 6 Hearts No bid 7 Diamonds
Result:—2590 to N.S.

Balance in favour of the one team:—1490 points, enough, in fact, to turn the scale on the match.

In Room I, North and South had heard a lot about the substantial penalties to be had out of doubling low bids in proper cases, and so South left his partner in his Double. Certainly from North's point of view it looked like being a really fat double after South's opening bid.

In Room II, South was not quite so sure that the penalty would be so enormous, and rather fancied the strength of his two-sunder which was also void in the opponents' suit. He accordingly ignored his partner's double and went on.

North, with 4½ Honour-tricks and tremendous support in Diamonds could also read the probable distribution of South's hand after the latter's support in Spades. South ultimately re-bid his Hearts as he did not want to sign off with Diamonds and he had a slight re-bid value, not previously disclosed, in his void in Clubs.

I may say that, long after the match was over, this hand caused considerable argument and discussion among those concerned. West in both rooms got some kudos for the bid of Two Clubs; he might have been set 1400 points had the Knave of Clubs been in North's hand. Even then, as it turned out, it would have paid his side.

Inter-Club Contract Bridge.
The annual Invitation Inter-Club Duplicate Contract Bridge Tournament for the Portland Club Challenge Cup began last month at the Portland Club. Twenty-four Clubs entered, including the Devonshire Club, who were the winners last year.

Rubber Duplicate is played in each match over 32 boards, with the following variations from the methods employed last year, that is, each hand having been previously dealt by officials and duplicated, is played simultaneously in each room. When a rubber is completed in one room, the scores are added up in each room, the balance is carried forward, and each room begins a fresh rubber.

This Tournament is a very popular one, as it has imported into London Club life yet a further medium for the competitive spirit which is all to the good in fostering friendly inter-club social relations.

"STORM AT DAYBREAK"—QUEEN'S THEATRE

A background of fine music gives an operatic atmosphere to the new M.G.M. film "Storm at Daybreak," which is now showing at the Queen's Theatre—an atmosphere supported by the manner in which the sketchy but dramatic plot is unfolded.

It is a romantic drama against a background of war, the setting being a little town in the Balkans, and the principal characters, a Serbian and his wife and their friend, a Hungarian.

Brilliant acting by Walter Huston and Kay Francis in the main roles, and Nils Asther as the Hungarian, lift the film above mediocrity. The humour is provided by Eugene Pallette in a typical role.

"THE DEVIL'S IN LOVE"—KING'S THEATRE

Stories of the Foreign Legion always make excellent material for talkie dramas, and "The Devil's in Love," the Fox production which is now showing at the King's Theatre is no exception.

A surgeon attached to Fort Rondek, a French African outpost, is accused of the murder of his major and sentenced to death.

He escapes and succeeds in making his way to Port Zamba, outside French territory, where he works at a Mission station and falls in love with a beautiful young woman.

He is forced to flee again as the search for him continues and, makes his way back to the Fort where he finds the real murderer and forces a confession from him.

Victor Jory and David Manners share honours as the doctor and the captain respectively, and Loretta Young makes a charming figure in a rather minor role. Vivienne Osborne is very convincing as an exotic proprietress of a cafe.

Hulse impresses As A Bowler.

SCHOOLS' AVERAGES

(By ATHOLE).

A. J. Hulse created a very favourable impression on Saturday when he was played by the Kowloon Cricket Club against the Hong Kong Cricket Club seniors.

Of tall stature, Hulse, who is still a pupil at the Diocesan Boys' School, sends down a fast medium ball of good length which comes in sharply from the off.

On Saturday, though he did not take a wicket, he excited the interest of "Tam" Pearce and Tom Hayward, both of whom said that he should be taken in hand right away.

His off-spinners have given him 26 wickets in D.B.S. matches for the amazingly low cost of 3.9 runs apiece.

The following are the averages of the D.B.S. and the Central British School elevens to date:

PAT MADAR LEAVES FOR NORTH TO-DAY SINCLAIR'S BRILLIANT KEEPING FOR NAVY

SEASON'S FIRST "HAT TRICK"

(By Athole).

F. D. Pereira, the Colony fast bowler who excelled against Shanghai in the Triangular Inter-port, provided the first sensation of the 1933-4 cricket season when he took 6 wickets for 9 runs to dismiss Craigengower for 28 runs in a premier league cricket match on Saturday at Sookunpoo.

A. R. Minu, an other interpreter, commenced the Craigengower "bat" by clean bowling Ernie Zimmerman, and then Pereira in an inspired spell took six wickets in the course of 4 overs for 7 runs. His last three wickets being taken in the same over. Pereira hit the stumps three times and S. A. Ismail held three catches for him behind the wicket. A. R. Minu took 3 wickets for 19 runs. Craigengower was batting only ten men in the absence of R. C. Reed who failed to make an appearance.

A. R. Minu

Craigengower's innings of 28, which was completed in 38 minutes, is the lowest premier league total in the last five years.

Rumjahn's Twelve Boundaries
A. H. Rumjahn played a determined innings for 58, scored out of 131 in 75 minutes, for the I.R.C., adding 73 with A. H. Madar (28) for the fifth wicket after the I.R.C. had lost their first four wickets for 42 runs in half an hour. Rumjahn hit no fewer than 12 boundaries in his innings!

The I.R.C. scored their 100 in 97 minutes and followed up their triumph over the Navy by beating Craigengower by 138 runs.

Pereira preceded his bowling success by hitting six boundaries in his 27, scored out of 51 in 16 minutes.

I was glad to see both A. E. Arculli, President of the I.R.C., and U. M. Omar playing again. There was some talk of both players returning from the game this season. Arculli made 5 and Omar took 3 I.R.C. wickets for 51 runs.

The I.R.C. beat the Navy by 5 wickets on November 18 and their win on Saturday augurs well for their championship chances. Their batting will need stiffening up, though A. S. Suffad has come on well this season, and J. S. A. Cureem is batting well at the moment.

Army Set Big Task

After losing the toss in their league game against the Navy at King's Park on Saturday the Army were set the task of scoring 192 in 100 minutes to win. They scored 181 for 7.

Missed at 19 by Capt. Michell, who damaged a finger in attempting to take a catch off his own bowling. Lt. Marsham played a steady knock for 28, scored out of 60, for the Navy. He and Sub-Lt. Sinclair (11) added 45 runs in 27 minutes for the first wicket.

Lt. Eaden played a chanceless innings for his 42, though several apply shots went gently near to fielders. He was also the most impressive Navy bowler, taking 2 for 31 as the result of keeping a good length.

The Navy scored their last 120 runs in 50 minutes.

Major Bonavia, the best left-handed batsman in the Colony, collected 44 out of 86 before falling to a catch off Eaden. Though scoring freely all round the wicket, he hit only three boundaries.

Dropped by A. B. Large when 9 Capt. Williams rattled up 22 in quick time before he edged a bumper from Eaden to give Sinclair an opportunity to bring off a spectacular catch. Sinclair, though not the regular Navy stumper, gave a great display behind the stumps, taking three catches and allowing only three byes in a total of 131.

The following have been the results of First Division League matches to date:

I.R.C. beat Navy by 8 wickets

I.R.C. beat Craigengower by 138 runs

Army drew with the Navy

A. H. Rumjahn's 58 for the I.R.C. against Craigengower is the best batting feat to date, while F. D. Pereira's 6 for 9 for the I.R.C. against Craigengower is the best bowling performance.

This Saturday's K.C.C. Game

This coming Saturday the Army are playing their second League game when they visit the K.C.C., who I understand will be at full strength, with the exception of Frank Goodwin. Their team will probably be as follows:

F. C. Fincher (captain), F. A. Munn, C. F. Fincher, W. C. Hung, A. T. Lay, S. V. Gittins, G. C. Burnett, N. A. E. Mackay, R. B. Lewis, C. B. R. Sargent and C. I. Stapleton.

Last year the Army were beaten in a sensational race against the clock. Arthur Lay scoring 78 in less than 50 minutes to lay the foundations for the K.C.C. triumph in a tall scoring game. Saturday's game will be another struggle between two strong batting sides, though the inclusion of R. B. Lewis, the Malaya Interporter, should greatly assist the home team's attack. Pat Madar will not be available for the K.C.C. as he leaves to-day for Shanghai.

R. B. Lewis played for Malaya against Hong Kong in the Colony in 1927 when he was put on as first change bowler to take 1 for 71 in 18 overs. He scored 2 and 3. He is a medium paced left-handed bowler and a left-handed batsman.

It is probable that Pat Barnaby, the Lincoln's bowler, will be included in the Army side. He was selected for last Saturday, but was replaced by Cpl. Colledge at the last minute.

Sgt. Taylor is a very promising bowler, but his batting is likely to be even better if he would attempt to play a straight bat with the left foot well forward alongside the pitch of the ball. His defensive shot is a very powerful one. I saw him in the nets the other day when he was trying slow spin bowling instead of bowling his usual medium-paced delivery and attempting to secure command of spin at that pace. This is a fault which needs to be corrected immediately.

Pat Madar leaves for Shanghai to-day; F. D. Pereira the Colony's fastest bowler had 6 for 9 against Craigengower on Saturday; G. E. R. Divett, the Club hockey player, is taking up cricket again. He played for the Club on Saturday.

It is a pity "Mike" Waring is not taking bowling seriously. It was his slow bowling that secured him a place in the Malaya team to visit the Colony in 1928. There are precious few good slow bowlers in the Colony—Minu has now considerably increased his pace.

Surprise K.C.C. Win

Though both teams were below strength it came as a surprise when the K.C.C. beat the Club in their friendly encounter by 5 wickets at the H.K.C.C. on Saturday.

Coming in at the fall of the third wicket at 33, "Tam" Pearce played a dogged innings for 70 not out, scored out of 131 in 58 minutes. He narrowly missed being stumped in his first over against Pat Madar who had the former Colony skipper in difficulties throughout his innings. "Tam," however, hit 13 boundaries.

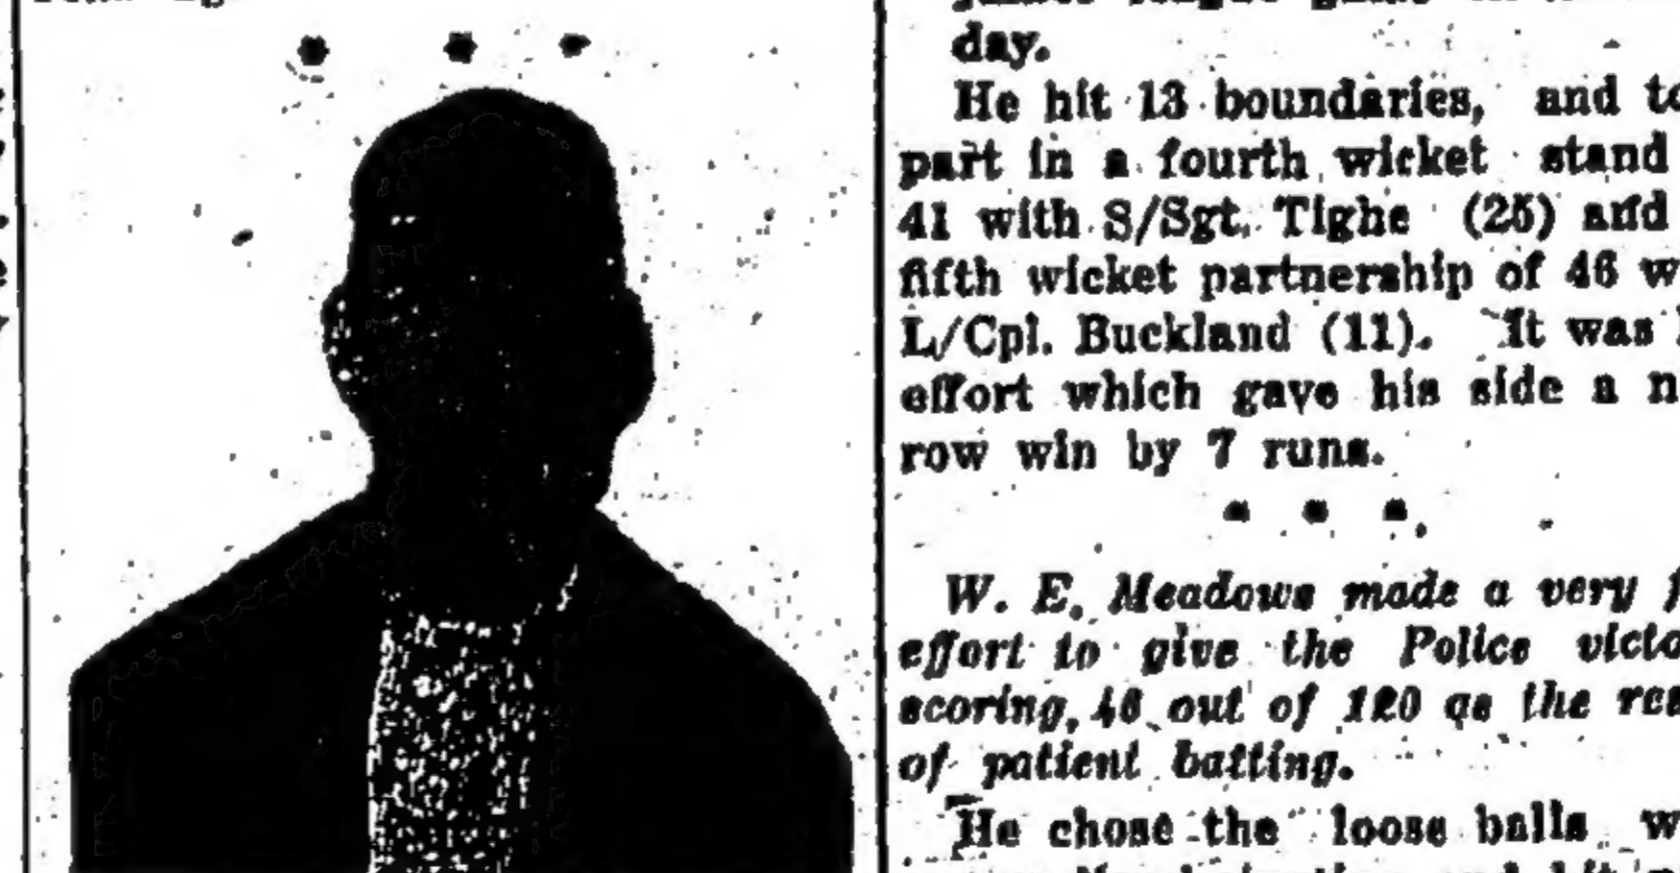

T. A. Pearce was dismissed cheaply when he attempted to hit what looked like a full toss from F. S. W. Smith and took up a catch to C. B. R. Sargent at short leg.

"Tam" Pearce and Tom Hayward were associated in a bright partnership which realised 60 runs in 33 minutes before Hayward provided N. A. E. Mackay with his third stumping victim after scoring 27 which included a glorious six off Madar.

Mackay had a good day behind the stumps, stumping three batsmen and allowing only three byes in a total of 164. The K.C.C. will be very unwise if they play "Starling" Jex behind the wicket and attempt to cultivate Mackay's bowling abilities.

Madar Bowl Well

Pat Madar bowled extraordinarily well, though his figures of 4 for 55 are not impressive. He varied his length and flight in a very subtle manner, many of the batsmen's upshots falling just short of fielders. He played for the K.C.C. in the League two seasons ago.

G. S. Dunkley, the Colony wicket-keeper, used to open the Shanghai Volunteers' innings. On Saturday he opened the Club innings against Kowloon and scored 17.

Two Shanghai Interport players took part in the game—P. V. Simpson, the Northerners' opening bat, and Pat Madar, former skipper of the "Races." And G. S. Dunkley, the Colony wicket-keeper, opened the Club innings. He scored 17 out of 33 in 17 minutes.

Teddy Fincher and Pat Madar gave the K.C.C. a good start when they put on 65 runs in 34 minutes before Madar was completely beaten by T. A. Pearce's spin for 25, which included five boundaries. Fincher left 20 runs later for 42 which included six boundaries. He had batted for 45 minutes.

S. V. Gittins again batted aggressively to collect 42 runs out of 60 in under 20 minutes. Undeceived at the close of play he hit seven boundaries as the result of straight driving. In one over from G. E. R. Divett he hit the five balls he required for 4244. It was his fine hitting that gave the K.C.C. victory by 5 wickets.

F. E. Lawrence, who is expected to skipper the K.C.C. second eleven, is due back from home leave on the Carthage on Friday. He was one of the members of the Hong Kong team which toured Somerset last summer.

The First "Hat Trick"

A. A. Aziz, formerly a member of the University and a very fine fielder, has the distinction of recording the first League "hat trick" of the season. Playing for the I.R.C. juniors on Saturday against Craigengower, junior champions, he dismissed W. K. Way (1), F. Broadbridge (2) and W. H. Musket (3) with successive balls, clean bowling Musket with his third ball of the over. His final figures were 3 for 2.

The champions fared poorly in the face of A. A. Rumjahn (5 for 28) and were dismissed for 93. A. R. Suffad had the following figures for the innings:

O M R W

13 7 13 2

Sent in at the fall of the first wicket at 23, A. R. Abbas was undefeated at the close of play with 58 scored out of 96. Hitting twelve boundaries, the last eight being in succession, Abbas was largely responsible for the I.R.C. win by 6 wickets. In one over from E. Souza he hit five boundaries, and in partnership with A. R. Suffad (29) added 58 for the fourth wicket.

Match-Winning Innings

Sgt. Flood collected 64 out of 88 for the Service Corps against the Police in their junior league game on Saturday.

He hit 13 boundaries, and took part in a fourth wicket stand of 41 with S/Sgt. Tighe (25) and a fifth wicket partnership of 48 with L/Cpl. Buckland (11). It was his effort which gave his side a narrow win by 7 runs.

W. E. Meadows made a very fine effort to give the Police victory, scoring 40 out of 120 as the result of patient batting.

He chose the loose balls with great discrimination and hit nine boundaries. In partnership with Clarke (14) he added 32 runs for the fifth wicket, and with Wynne (26) added 52 for the sixth wicket. Wynne hit six boundaries.

Forrest took 4 for 20 against the soldiers, and had his last three wickets in the last over of the innings for only 4 runs.

Reed Again Undeceived

W. Reed, who is better known as a hockey player, though he is winning the reputation of being one of the most difficult batsmen to get out, scored 66 not out in the Recreation total of 118 for 3 against the Civil Service in their friendly game at the Valley on

LAL SINGH MAY NOT PLAY FOR INDIA XI

Considered Ineligible By Control Board.

RESIDENTIAL QUALIFICATION

LAL Singh is not likely to play for India in the Test matches against the M.C.C. side in the near future.

Born in Kuala Lumpur and not possessing a four year's residential qualification he has been considered ineligible by the Board of Control of Cricket in India, according to news from Calcutta.

Lal Singh earned a place in the Indian team which visited England in the 1932 season. The highest praise was showered on him for his fielding. More than one well-known cricket writer described him as one of the best fielders in the world.

Hoping that he would again earn Test honours, he left the Straits for India several weeks ago at his own expense, and has made two appearances against the M.C.C. playing an attractive innings of 46 in his last match.

He played against Hong Kong in the 1929 Interport in the Colony, and this season his brother, B. S. Gill, represented Malaya against the Colony.

Saturday. He hit nine boundaries, and in partnership with E. Soares (25) added 60 runs for the fourth wicket to give the Recreation a win by 7 wickets. J. F. McGowan bowled very steadily his 10 overs costing only 18 runs and producing three wickets.

The following have been the results of the six junior league games played to date:

I.R.C. beat Recreation by 61 runs.

K.C.C. beat R.A.M.C. by 6 wickets.

H.K.C.C. beat R.A.M.C. by 112 runs.

Navy beat I.R.C. by 3 wickets.

I.R.C. beat Craigengower by 6 wickets.

R.A.S.C. beat Police by 7 runs.

A. S. Suffad's 65 against the Recreation is the best score in the League to date, and A. D. Lawson's 6 for 16 against the Medical Corps is the best bowling feat.

I understand the Press are fielding a team against the I.R.C. on Saturday at Sookunpoo. Their team has been selected as follows: E. W. Hamilton (captain), F. D. Pereira, F. E. W. Lamont, A. R. Suffad, A. H. Rumjahn, A. M. Omar, A. R. Abbas, M. R. Abbas, E. Macnider, F. M. el Arculli and A. N. Other.

Adelaide, Nov. 7.

O'Reilly again skittled out Queensland on a drying wicket in the second innings, capturing seven wickets for 53 runs.

New South Wales won by an innings and 171 runs.

Adelaide, Nov. 7.

Richardson the South Australian Test player, scored 102, but failed to avert defeat for his side.

Ironmonger, assisted by the wicket, took 6 for 56.

Victoria won by 169 runs.

Adelaide, Nov. 7.

Both batsmen must remember that any ball patted gently in the direction of cover-point or extra cover, providing the ball is travelling slowly, is usually a fairly safe run. In this case (1) the striker must call quickly; (2) the non-striker must be backing up; (3) both batsmen must run at full speed.

Short runs have the effect of upsetting the fielding side, and very often yield a welcome overture of four runs.

The question of whether there is a run to third man, of course, rests with the non-striker. Generally speaking, there is always one here, unless third man is fielding exceptionally close in. Never be too casual in running the first run. Remember a ball hit into the outfield may be fumbled by the fieldman, and a second run made possible.

Be sure and run well off the wicket on the opposite side to which your partner is running. The question of turning for a second, third or fourth run is important. Obviously as little time as possible must be wasted. Therefore, when you get near enough to reach the popping crease, slow down and stretch out the leg to your full extent, and ground it as much as you can. The idea is to have the ball hit the popping crease before turning.

And make sure a sharp cut with your bat is in the air.

The correct procedure is to stand outside the popping crease, but the bat must be kept grounded just inside.

AUSTRALIAN CRICKET

Prospects For 1934 Test Series.

LEADING AUSTRALIAN PLAYERS SHOW GOOD FORM

London, Nov. 4.

AUSTRALIA'S prospects of sending a formidable team to Britain in quest of the Ashes seem very bright in view of the form of the leading players in the opening Sheffield Shield matches.

Bradman made 200 for New South Wales, playing a brilliant innings which included 26 boundaries.

Other outstanding performances were Brown (New South Wales) 154, the South Australian Nitschke 55, Woodfull (Victoria) 63, Fingleton (New South Wales) 55, Grimmer (South Australia) 7 for 80, O'Reilly (New South Wales) 6 for 58, the left hand googly bowler Fleetwood-Smith 6 for 81.

All these players are fighting for places in the touring team.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION
IN KWANGSINew Motor Highway
CompletedFORCED LABOUR IN SOME PARTS OF PROVINCE

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Wuchow.

With the recent completion of a new motor road between Paak-shik and Ping-ma, two cities in the north-western part of Kwangsi Province, another step in the direction of connecting all the main cities in Kwangsi by motor highways has been taken by the Provincial Bureau of Reconstruction, under the able direction of Mr. Wong Wing-wa.

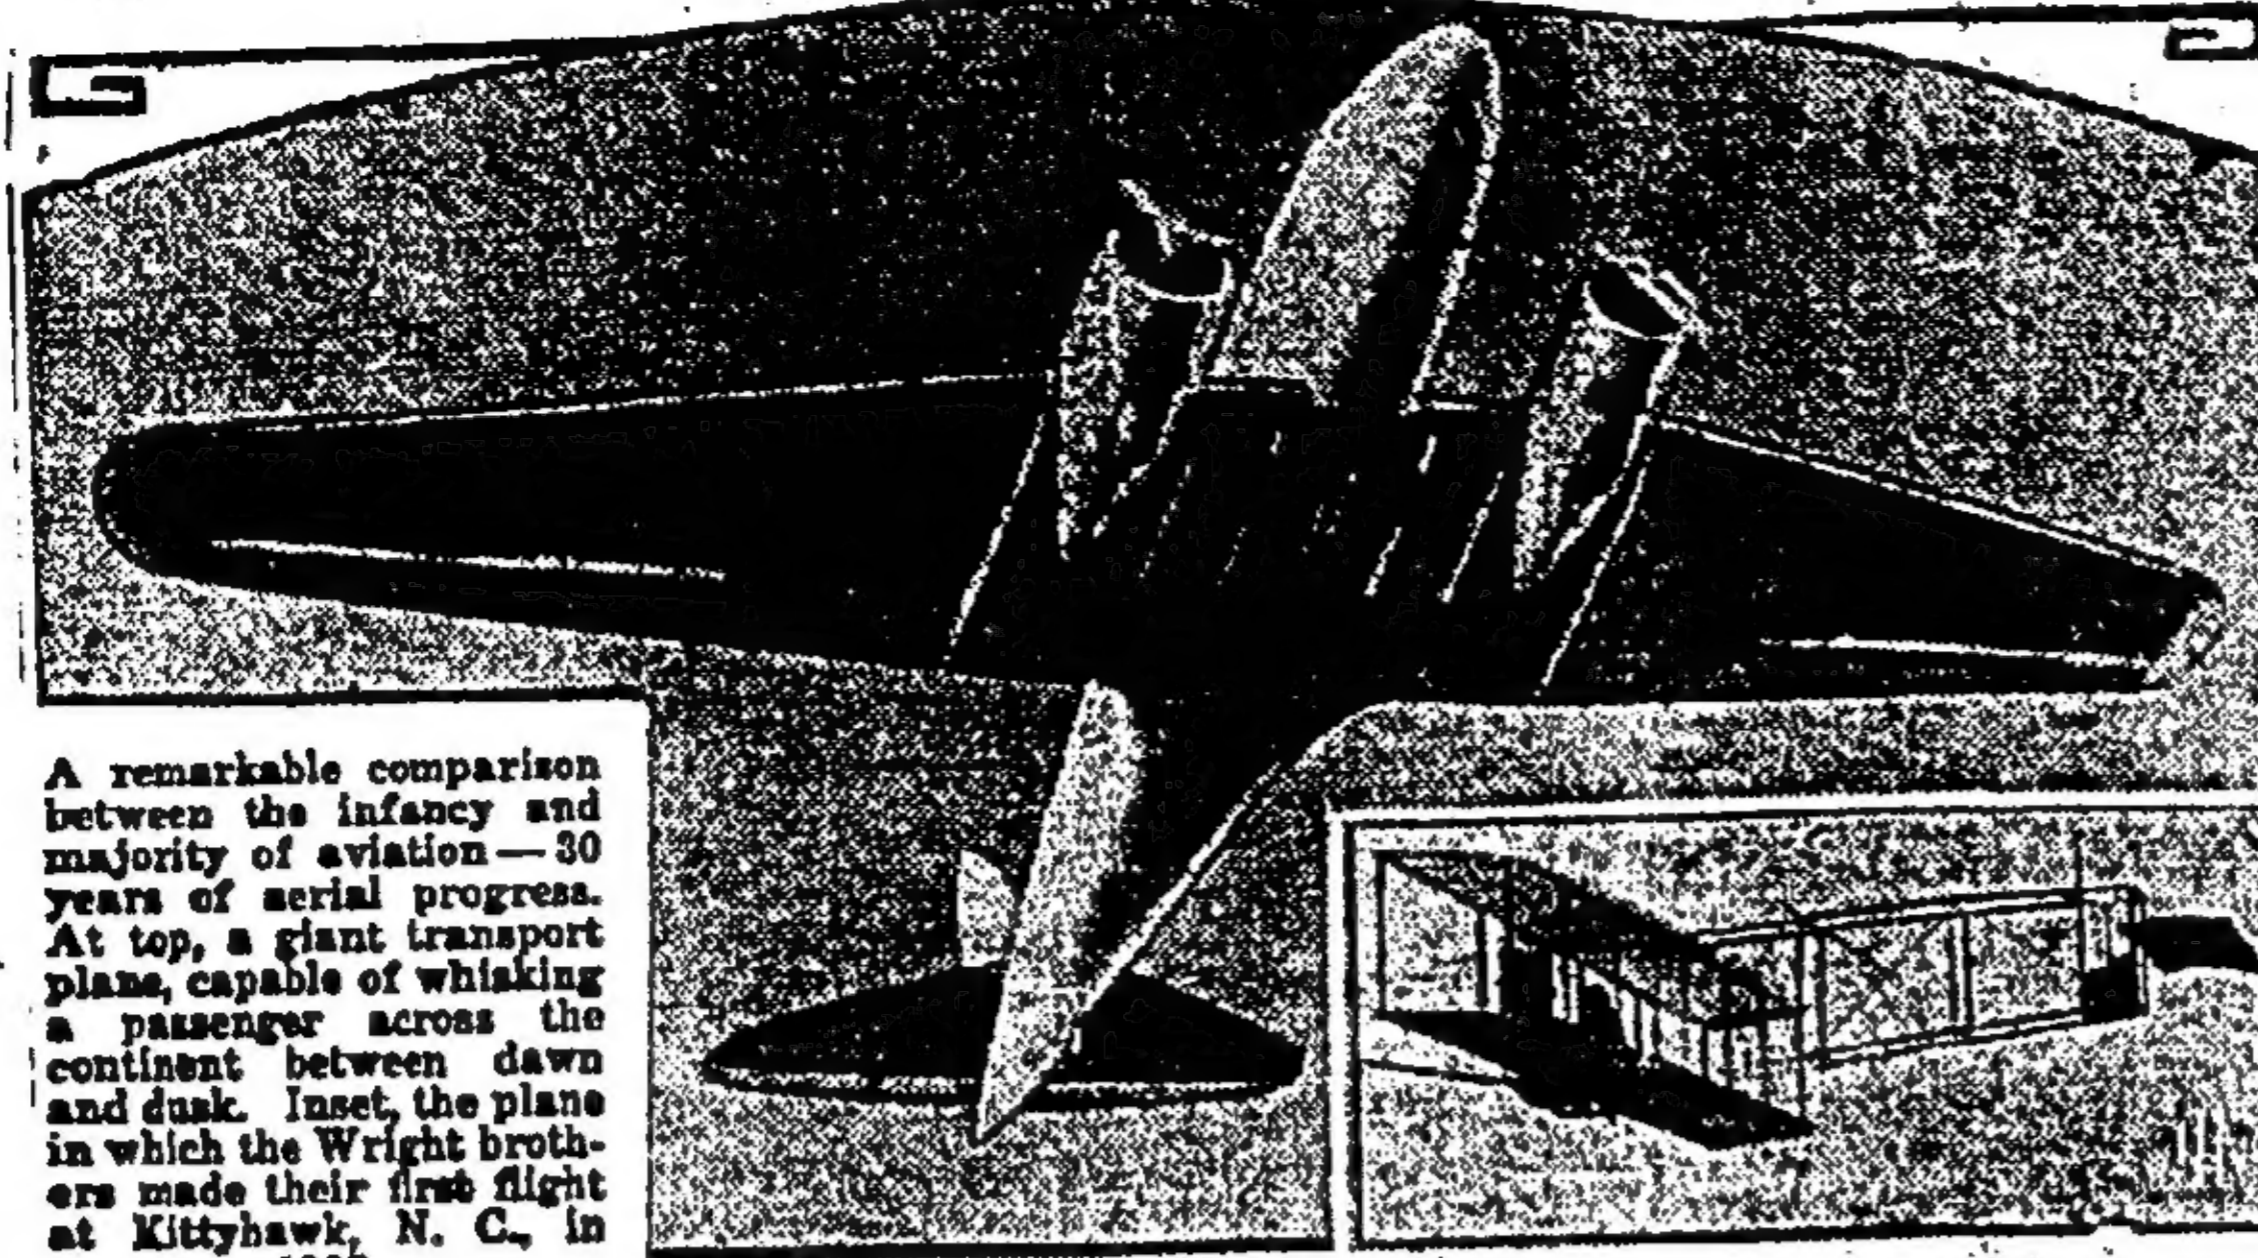

At the Paak-shik terminal of the new road, a company has erected a new bus station, and buses, running on schedule, now make the trip between the two cities.

A short time ago this district was a bandit-infested area, and all caravans travelling from one city to the other were compelled to have a bodyguard to protect them as they made their way along the narrow path that composed the trail. This primitive method of transportation has been replaced by a wide highway, over which motor cars may travel with comparative safety in a fraction of the time formerly required to cover the distance.

This is just one example of the progress that Kwangsi Province is making in the line of motor highway construction. At present it is possible to travel by motor car or bus to almost every part of the Province.

Starting at Wuchow, which is the eastern gateway of the Province, reached by steamer from Hong Kong or Canton, a road runs southward to Wulum. Here the road divides, one fork continuing on southward to the sea coast, and the other running north-west to the West River, which it crosses at Kwaluen. From this point the road continues on to the city of Pinyang, where it divides, one branch going

Thirty Years of Aviation Progress

A remarkable comparison between the infancy and majority of aviation—30 years of aerial progress. At top, a giant transport plane, capable of whisking a passenger across the continent between dawn and dusk. Inset, the plane in which the Wright brothers made their first flight at Kittyhawk, N. C., in 1903.

northward and the other southward.

Kum Sin Kong, Cheung On, Wang Sa Ho, Kwelin, and Ho Yuen are some of the main cities reached by the branch that goes northward, and Nanning, the capital of Kwangsi Province, is the destination of the road that follows the southern route. From Nanning it is possible to go by bus to Lungchow, and there is also bus communication with the railway that runs north from French Indo-China. Thus by means of buses or motorcars it is possible to go from Wuchow to all parts of the province except a portion in the north-west.

The reconstruction programme of the Provincial authorities includes the building of highways in this north-western section and already many long stretches of roads have been completed. One portion that is under construction at the present time is a stretch that will run through part of Yunnan Province.

A rather novel method of road construction is being employed by the officials in charge of building operations. Every family that lives in the section through which the new road runs is compelled to contribute 100 days of labour, during which time they must feed themselves. Every family is given a certain section of the road for which they are responsible.

In some places the military are used in road construction work. This keeps the men busy, during the time they are not on active duty.

According to a road map of Kwangsi Province, which has been published by the Kwangsi Reconstruction Department, an extensive program of construction is being undertaken by the Provincial authorities, and the near future will show that the Province has a highway system which will compare favourably with that of any other Province in China.

News In Brief.

At the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday Mr. Wynne-Jones fined one man $3 for smoking and another $2 for wearing a hat while the court was in session.

The half-yearly meeting of the voting members of Hong Kong Jockey Club will be held at Happy Valley at 5.30 this evening.

For the convenience of their clients, Messrs. Lammert Bros. will open a Kowloon Branch Sales Room, at No. 35, Hankow Road, Ground Floor, on December 1, 1933.

THE BAN ON RAFFLES

[The Editor, "China Mail"]

Sir,—I shall be thankful if you will kindly allow me space to deal with a matter of exceptional public interest.

The ban recently imposed by the Government of this Colony on raffles, especially that sponsored by the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, is, to my mind, both an injustice to the poor and decidedly unjustified in the case of this well known charitable institution.

Apparently, the sole reason advanced by the Government, is that, in cases of this description, the procedure adopted by the Society in disposing of the tickets was tantamount to a nuisance, and perhaps, may have been a contraction of the law.

Books of tickets, it is alleged, are sent to the heads of firms uninvited, with the request that they be disposed among the staff. If this were the main objection, surely there could have been an official communication to the Society concerned, instead of the present drastic legislation which, may I point out, in no wise controls that other evil, more potent of social corruption, the surreptitious sale of lottery tickets, etc., which the Colony is so fulsomely flooded.

Had a more liberal and fair-minded attitude been adopted by our worthy Councilors, and had the matter received the lucid and broad-minded consideration that is its due, the cause of Charity, as well as the aims of common-sense, good government, and self-respect, would have been well-served, as well as protected and advised.

In the circumstances, however, and with due deference to our present administrators, is it too much to hope that such a bald contradiction of reason will be remedied as soon as possible, in order to save the fair name of this Colony in the century of progressive and intelligent development which mainly concerns us because we have to live, forsooth, in its sometimes embarrassing broad-mindedness.

Yours, etc.,

SOCIAL JUSTICE.

Dictators And Democracy

The subject has become one of wide discussion. It has even entered school debates in the United States. A letter from an ingenious maiden in a Western State asks for information and advice concerning the topic. But interest in it America is not nearly so great as, of all places, in Great Britain. There it is having a tremendous run in pamphlets and books and public addresses. One writer protests against "the false and fatal distinction between dictatorship and democracy." Evidently in his mind the two may safely be blended. His thought had apparently been stirred by the recent volume on the future program of the Labour party written by Sir Stafford Cripps. Sir Stafford is a lawyer of great ability, having been Solicitor General in the last Labour Government. What he really set out to prove in his book is that the Labour party, when it comes into power again, will be able to carry out all its plans within constitutional limitations. If it should have a majority in the House of Commons, and should desire to proceed, for example, with a statute nationalizing the Bank of England and indeed, all the banks, it would undoubtedly meet its first obstacle in a veto by the House of Lords. But this could be overcome, Sir Stafford argues, by demanding of the King that he create a sufficient number of new Peers to execute the will of the people. Ah! but suppose the monarch should refuse? In that case, declares Sir Stafford, the Labour Government would proceed with its project just as if the House of Lords did not exist. That would frankly be a revolution, or at least unconstitutional. This conclusion has been drawn by many Conservative critics, who contend that the course advocated by Sir Stafford Cripps would necessarily mean a political dictatorship. He, of course, denies this, and protests against the idea that he, the son of the great pacifist, Lord Parmoor, could ever contemplate becoming or favouring a British dictator. The controversy is largely academic. There is little likelihood that the discordant elements in the Labour party can be got together so as to win, within the next ten years, a majority of the House of Commons. Yet it is a fact that, among Tories and Liberals, as well as among members of the Labour party, there is a growing demand for a greater and prompt exercise of power by the Government, in a sense almost dictatorial. Such a thing might be brought about by an enlargement of the functions of the bureaucracy. These have already been made so extensive as to revoke a remonstrance by the Lord Chief Justice. Lord Hewart, whose book of a couple of years ago analyzed the case with great pungency. It is doubtless also true that the example of President Roosevelt has had its effect in England in stirring up not only admiration but envy. The President of the Board of Trade asserted the other day that Mr. Roosevelt is "the greatest autocrat in the world." How he obtained his extraordinary powers, it might be well for English public men to consider. In form, at least, they were conferred upon him in strict conformity with the American Constitution. He has exerted no authority except that conferred upon him by Congress. Of some of the vast and vague powers granted him by regularly enacted statutes, he has, as yet, made no use. Of course, it may be said, and the Supreme Court will very likely be called upon to decide if it is so, that Congress exceeded its own constitutional rights in giving to the President what it did. But thus far, it must be admitted, there has been no such thing as an overt usurpation of power, no violent assumption of anything like a dictatorship. There has been no real departure from the established form of democratic procedure. It might even be argued that what has been done is really a triumph for democracy. It has shown its versatility and adaptability. In a great national emergency it has embraced plans made necessary by the times. Be it noted, also, that the grants of power to the President have been limited in time. It is not impossible that they will all lapse or be recalled after two years. At any rate, nothing that has thus far occurred lends the slightest support to the notion that there is or could be in the United States a real dictator.

HERE, THERE and EVERYWHERE

The Nazi Mecca

One consequence of the strained relations between Germany and Austria is the cessation of Nazi tours to Herr Hitler's Austrian birthplace, Braunau-on-Inn, which is only three miles from the Bavarian frontier.

The Mecca of Nazi pilgrims is the little house—now an inn—in the Salzburger Vorstadtstrasse, where he was born.

The 4762 inhabitants are not over-proud of their famous citizen. A proposed put before the town council by a Pan-German to confer the freedom of the town on Herr Hitler was defeated by a large majority.

A Tragic Mayor

Braunau has another historical celebrity—a mayor who was reputed to have the longest beard in the world.

His end was tragic. Rushing to take command of the local fire-brigade at a fire, he tripped on his beard and broken his neck.

True, he goes back to 1550, but the lesson of his life's tragedy survives. There are no beards in Braunau. Neither, for that matter, is the Hitler moustache yet popular.

Jannings On The Stage Again

It is "stated from Vienna" that Emil Jannings is shortly returning to the stage. Apparently the prevalent Henry VIII. virus has got into his blood, and he is to appear at the Josefstadt Theatre in Vienna in a play of that name just written by Albrecht Josef.

Jannings has already played Henry VIII.—once on the stage in Shakespeare's version, and once in an American film called "Deception." It is not, historically speaking, a far cry from the professor in the "The Blue Angel" to the Henry and Katherine Howard episode.

ROOSEVELT AND THE WORLD'S GOLD WHAT HIS LATEST POLICY MAY INVOLVE

(By Leonard J. Reid.)

London, Nov. 1.

President Roosevelt's decision that America should resume the purchase of gold in the world markets was not unexpected in the City.

The experiment, was tried last week of fixing the price at which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would buy new gold produced in America. One week's experience has been sufficient to prove that this limited measure alone gave no help at all towards raising the price of farm products.

Therefore, if Mr. Roosevelt was determined to see how he could attain his object by harnessing gold to his purpose, it was obvious that he must soon go further. He must endeavour to influence not only the American price, but the world price, of gold. The only effect of fixing the price of the product of the American gold mines at artificially high levels was to give a wholly unnecessary bonus to the owners of those mines.

So now America is apparently to attempt to raise the world price of gold by becoming a buyer in foreign markets.

Mr. Roosevelt's

Well-Kept Secret

So far nobody outside the White House knows how Mr. Roosevelt proposes to put his decision into force. Will he be content to bid for the new gold which comes on the London market each week? Or are his aims more ambitious? For instance, has he in mind the attraction to America offering a fancy price?

How is he going to finance the purchase of the gold? The Federal Reserve system has, of course, the machinery for foreign gold purchases. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to whom the purchasing is now to be entrusted, has not. Will he, as we have done here, set up an Exchange Control Fund?

Until many of these questions are answered it is quite impossible to say what the full significance is of the American President's latest essay in monetary policy.

One thing is perfectly clear, and that is the aim which the policy seeks to achieve. The fate of Mr. Roosevelt's Administration entirely depends on its success or failure in raising prices of agricultural products. Farmers of the West and Middle West have seen their savings disappear. Their load of mortgages has increased. Creditors threaten to foreclose upon their farms.

They demand more remunerative prices for what they grow, and Mr. Roosevelt has promised to satisfy their demands.

Exploring Every

Avenue

At the outset of Mr. Roosevelt's term of office prices rose on a wave of psychological recovery. For the last three months they have steadily slipped back. Mr. Roosevelt is, therefore, willing to try any and every expedient to set prices rising.

He has tried abandoning the Gold Standard and depreciating the dollar. He has tried psychological "boosting" with great vigour. He has tried a vast experiment of national control of wages and prices. But still the goal which he promised to reach quickly is far off.

He must seek another expedient. He seeks to manipulate gold, in the hope thereby of depressing the dollar and raising the level of prices.

It is thought in some quarters that, in fact, Mr. Roosevelt will do very little by way of gold purchases abroad, and that his latest decision is taken merely to give further proof to the farming community that he is busy exploring every avenue to help them. If so, well and good.

No Present Cause

For Alarm—But

Gold can only be bought by Americans through sales of dollars, and the sale of dollars will tend to depreciate the value of the dollar in terms of other currencies. It might, if it were on a moderate scale, do little more than counteract the present tendency of the dollar to increase in value whenever it is left alone for a short period.

If, that is all that Mr. Roosevelt has in mind—and it very well may be—there is nothing to be alarmed about, although financial opinion in London is inclined to be very sceptical as to whether such action would really help him in his object. It would seem that the American people, and even their leaders, are of the opinion that by raising the price of gold and depreciating your currency, you are bound to raise the commodity price level in your own country.

We in England were inclined to think on similar lines, until we found that in 1931 and 1932 sterling depreciation coincided with, first a stable, and then a declining level of prices. Would it be different in America? Just possibly, and for two reasons.

In the first place, there is at least a chance that the general world recovery will continue for a while, and influence prices in America as well as elsewhere. In the second place, the conditions of the self-contained American Continent are very different from those of Britain or any other European country, except, possibly, France. For these reasons no one is prepared to predict the effect on American prices of further moderate depreciation of the dollar, and moderate raising of the world gold price.

America Does Not

Want Gold

But what if Mr. Roosevelt is driven to far wider and bolder use of his new experiment? What if he has in mind, or if he may in the end be driven to a policy of drawing large stocks of gold from the only country outside America in which large stocks of gold exist?

Those who interpret his intention as being of this grandiose nature foresee the possibility of France and the other gold countries being driven off the Gold Standard, and of a world war of currency depreciation being started.

Such dire possibilities may lurk behind Mr. Roosevelt's new policy. But it is very premature to suppose that those dangers are very real or very near. America does not want gold. She has a superabundance of it. To send gold to New York is like sending coal to Newcastle. Is she likely to go on frittering away her resources in buying other people's gold, which she does not want, at high prices, unless such a process clearly and early shows that it is having the desired effect of raising American prices?

Mr. Roosevelt has shown a bold aptitude for sudden changes of policy. And if, as London thinks, this latest departure will not prove highly practical, then, surely, it is not likely to be pressed very far.

It is proposed that a reward should be given to anyone bringing a dog's tail to the nearest police station.

OPIUM TRAFFIC TO MANCHUKUO

Alleged Facilities By British Officials.

ASSURANCES GIVEN BY FOREIGN SECRETARY

London, To-day. Allegations that opium was being transported from Persia to Manchuria largely in British ships, and that the authorities in British ports and Dependencies en route facilitated the traffic were made by Mr. Rhys-Davies in a question in the House of Commons, yesterday.

The Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, replied that as far as was ascertainable, the suggestion was unfounded.

He pointed out that the Sino-Japanese Committee, at the Assembly of the League had adopted the recommendation of the Government in regard to the application to Manchuria and Jehol of the provisions of the international Conventions regarding opium, and the Advisory Committee of the League had recommended that applications for export to Manchukuo of opium and dangerous drugs should not be granted unless the applicant produced a satisfactory import certificate in accordance with the Geneva Opium Convention of 1925, which declared that goods should not be imported into Manchukuo for any purpose contrary to the Convention.

Sir John Simon concluded by giving assurances that the action of the authorities in Britain and all British Dependencies would continue to be strictly in accord with their international obligations and the League recommendations.

TAILORING WITHOUT A FIT.

Camera Used To Take Measurements.

Helsingfors. A Swedish firm of tailors is employing a camera as tailor's assistant.

A photograph full-face and in profile is taken of the client. The two photographs are then projected life-size on to a specially squared screen so that the tailor has a life-size model of his client continually before him. And the client is saved innumerable fittings.

Not only does this method make it possible to check all measurements, but the tailor is also put in a position to spot any physical peculiarity such as a "tummy," a stoop or a crooked shoulder.—Reuter

NEW LIGHT ON LOST STUDS.

London. A house slipper for men with a little electric bulb and battery ingeniously fitted into the heel is among the novelties at the International Shoe and Leather Fair in London.

The switch which lights the bulb is worked by the wearer by throwing his weight over to the left. "It has been devised for the man who is always losing his collar studs and other trifles," it is explained. "If he is wearing this slipper he can obtain a light in dark corners by pressing on the left of his heels and can find his stud without using innumerable matches, as well as bad language."—Reuter.

REVISION ON CLASS BASIS

Riga. Railway, omnibus and tramcar fares throughout the U.S.S.R. are to be revised on a class basis, says a report from Moscow.

Each traveller is to pay according to his earnings. When he applies for his ticket he will have to produce a "labour card" showing his income.

Citizens earning more than £10 (at par) a month will be charged one shilling for a tram ride anywhere in Moscow. Those with incomes under £10 will pay only one-fifth of the present fare.—Reuter.

YAUMATI BLAZE THIS MORNING

Tenement Building Guttled.

NO CASUALTIES

A four-storey tenement building, 162 Temple Street, Yaumati, was completely gutted by fire which broke out at 4.15 this morning.

The fire is believed to have originated in a kitchen on the ground floor, occupied by a furniture shop. The flames spread rapidly and within a short time the upper floors which were untenanted, were involved.

The occupants of the first floor, an opium divan, were able to escape before the flames became dangerous.

The Kowloon Fire Brigade turned out in full force, and with the assistance of a fire-boat from Hong Kong, the fire was under control within 20 minutes.

The extent of the damage has not yet been ascertained. The building was constructed with wooden floors and a wooden stairway provided access to the upper floors. The furniture on the ground floor fell an easy prey to the flames and most of the damage was done before assistance could be obtained.

Mr. G. C. Moss, officer-in-charge of the Kowloon Fire Brigade directed operations until the arrival of Fire Superintendent, H. T. Brooks from Hong Kong on board the fire-boat.

MARKET STALLS IN FIRE OUTBREAK.

Chemical Extinguisher Subdues Blaze.

A stall in the Kun Chuen Market, Kowloon, caught fire at 2.25 this morning when a cooking stove overturned, the flames spreading to two stalls nearby.

The first was put out by a police constable, with the aid of chemical fire extinguisher, before much damage was done.

Fire engines from Mongkok and Kowloon Stations turned out, but were not required.

BAG SNATCHERS AT NICE

Well-Dressed Bandit Operates From Car.

Cannes.

Bag snatchers have appeared in Cannes and already several cases have been reported to the police. Recently, while walking on La Croisette Promenade, a Swiss lady lost her bag containing 900 francs and her passport.

The attack took place in the orthodox fashion. A car containing two men suddenly stopped, beside her and one of them who was wearing a dinner jacket jumped out, snatched her bag and re-entered the car, which drove off quickly in the direction of Nice. The police are investigating the case.—Reuter.

STRIKE SETTLED

Bank Site Coolies Resume Work.

SATISFIED AND CONTENTED

The entire contingent of 270 Shanghai workmen employed on the site of the new Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank Building, who went out on strike yesterday in protest against the introduction of the European system of checking-in at the works, returned to work this morning.

A China Mail representative was informed by the Construction Engineers, Messrs. Logan and Amps, that the men have been convinced of the necessity of adopting the European system and are quite agreeable and contented. They came from their quarters at Ma Tau Kok, Kowloon, on the Company's launch this morning and commenced work promptly at 7 o'clock.

BLASTING THE OLD BANK VAULTS

Royal Engineers At Work On Site

GELIGNITE BEING USED IN DEMOLITION

The Royal Engineers have been given the opportunity of experimenting in blasting at the site of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank building, where the work of demolishing the reinforced concrete vaults, is being carried out in preparation for the rebuilding of the Bank.

Actual blasting commenced three days ago and gelignite is being used to destroy the thick underground walls. The vaults extend over a large area of the old Bank site.

Excavation of the site was to have commenced yesterday, but owing to the strike of the Shanghai workmen has had to be postponed for a day or two.

The demolition of the Bank building has occupied only six weeks. Begun in 1880, the building took over two years to complete, and was opened in 1883.

BRITISH CRUISER'S FAST RUN.

H.M.S. Achilles Averages 28 Knots.

London, To-day.

The Admiralty state that the average speed maintained by the new British cruiser, "Achilles", on her 39-hour voyage from Gibraltar to Portland, last week, works out to 28.1 knots.

H.M.S. Achilles is a 7,000-ton cruiser of the Leander class, built at the Birkenhead yard of Messrs. Cammell Laird, and commissioned in October.

She has 72,000 horse-power, but her run home from Gibraltar was made on 3/6 of her power. The speed she maintained is believed to exceed any before achieved for long distance steaming by a warship of her type.

The maximum speed of the "Achilles" is put at 32.5 knots.—British Wireless Service.

To-day's Short Story.

THE HAIR

By A. J. Alan.

I'm going to give you an account of certain occurrences. I shan't attempt to explain them, because they're quite beyond me. When you've heard all the facts, some of you may be able to offer suggestions. You must forgive me for going into a certain amount of detail. When you don't understand what you're talking about it's no difficult to know what to leave out.

This business began in the dark ages, before there was any broadcasting. In fact, in 1921.

I'd been staying the week-end with a friend of mine who lives about 15 miles out of Bristol.

There was another man stopping there, too, who lived at Dawlish. Well, on the Monday morning our host drove us into Bristol in time for the Dawlish man to catch his train, which left a good deal earlier than the London one. Of course, if old Einstein had done his job properly, we could both have gone by the same train. As it was, I had over half an hour to wait. Talking of Einstein, wouldn't it be almost worth while dying young so as to hear what Euclid says to him when they meet—wherever it is?

There was a funny little old sort of curiosity shop in one of the streets I went down, and I stopped to look in the window. Right at the back, on a shelf, was a round brass box, not unlike a powder-box in shape, and it rather took my fancy. I don't know why—perhaps it was because I'd never seen anything quite like it before. That must be why some women buy some hats.

Anyway, the shop window was so dirty that you could hardly see through it, so I went inside to have a closer look. An incredibly old man came out of the back regions and told me all he knew about the box, which wasn't very much. It was fairly heavy, made of brass, round, four inches high, and about three inches in diameter. There was something inside it, which we could hear when we shook it, but no one had ever been able to get the lid off. He'd bought it from a sailor—it had a left-handed thread on it. Rather a dirty trick—especially to go and do it all those years before.

Well, here it was, unscrewing very sweetly, and I began to feel excited, wondering what I was going to find. It might go off bang, or jump out and hit me in the face. However, nothing exciting happened when the lid came off. In fact, the box only seemed to be half-full of dust, but at the bottom was a curled-up plait of hair. When I straightened it out, it was about nine inches long and nearly as thick as a pencil. I unplaited a short length, and found it consisted of some hundreds of very fine hairs, but in such a filthy state (I shoved them under the microscope) that there was nothing much to be seen. So I thought I'd clean them. You may as well know the process—first of all a bath of dilute hydrochloric acid to get the grease off, then a solution of washing soda to remove the acid. Then a washing in distilled water, then a bath of alcohol to get rid of any traces of water, and a final rinsing in ether to top off with.

Just as I took it out of the ether they called me down to the telephone, so I shoved it down on the first clean thing which came handy, namely, a piece of white cardboard, and went downstairs. When I examined the plait later on, the only thing of interest that came to light was the fact that the hairs had all apparently belonged to several different women. The colours ranged from jet black, through brown, red, and gold, right up to pure white. None of the hair was dyed, which proved how very old it was. I showed it to one or two people, but they didn't seem very enthusiastic, so I put it, and its box in a little corner cupboard we have, and forgot all about it.

Then the first strange coincidence happened. About ten days later a pal of mine called Matthews came into the club with a bandage across his forehead. People naturally asked him what was the matter, and he said he didn't know, and what's more his doctor didn't know. He'd suddenly flopped down on his drawingroom floor, in the middle of tea, and lain like a log. His wife was in a fearful stew, of course, and telephoned for the doctor. However, Matthews came round at the end of about five minutes, the sat up and asked what had hit him. When the doctor blew in a few minutes later he was pretty well all right, again except for a good deal of pain in his forehead. The doctor couldn't find anything the matter except a red mark which was beginning to show on the skin just where the pain was.

Well, this mark got clearer and clearer, until it looked just like a blow from a stick. Next day it was just about the same, except that a big bruise had come up all round the mark. After that it got gradually better, Matthews took or some years before, but couldn't say in the least what part of the world it came from.

"What about fifteen bob?" I offered him ten, and he took it very quickly, and then I had to sprint back to the station to catch my train. When I got home I took the box up into my workshop and had a proper look at it. It was extremely primitive as regards work, and had evidently been made by hand, and not on a lathe. Also, there had been something engraved on the lid, but it had been taken off with a file.

Next job was to get the lid off without doing any damage to it. I was a good deal more than hand tight, and no ordinary methods were any good. I stood it lid downwards for a week in a dish of glycerine as a start, and then made two brass collars, one for the box and one for the lid. At the end of the week I bolted the collars on, fixed the box in the vice and tried tapping the lid round with a hammer—but it wouldn't start. Then I tried it the other way and it went at once. That explained why no one had ever been able to unscrew the bandage off and showed it me at the club, and there was nothing much more than a bruise, with a curved red line down the middle of it. Liked the track of a red-hot worm.

They'd decided that he'd had an attack of dizziness and must somehow have bumped his head in falling. And that was that.

About a month later, my wife said to me: "We really must tidy your workshop! And I said: "Must we?" And she said: "Yes, it's a disgrace." So up we went.

Tidying my workshop consists of putting the tools back in their racks, and of my wife wanting to throw away things she finds on the floor, and me saying: "Oh, no, I could use that for so and so."

The first thing we came across was the piece of white cardboard I'd used to put the plait of hair on while I'd run down to the telephone that day.

When we came to look at the other side we found it was a flash-light photograph of a dinner I'd been at. You know what happens. Just before the speeches a lot of blighters come in with a camera and some poles with tin trays on the top, and someone says: "Will the chairman please stand?" and he's helped to his feet. Then there's a blinding flash and the room's full of smoke, and the blighters go out again. Later on a man comes round with proofs, and if you are very weak—or near the chairman—you order one print.

Well, this dinner had been the worshipful company of skates—fasteners or something, and I'd gone as the guest of the same bloke, Matthews. I've already been telling you about, and we'd sat "side by side," as the saying is. My wife was looking at the photograph, and she said: "What's that mark on Mr. Matthews' forehead?" And I looked—and there, sure enough, was the exact mark that he'd come into the club with a month before. The curious part being, of course, that the photograph had been taken at least six months before he'd had the funny attack which caused the mark.

Now then—on the back of the photograph, when we examined it, was a faint brown line. This was evidently left by the plait of hair when I pinned it out to dry, and it had soaked through and caused the mark on Matthews' face. I checked it by shoving a needle right through the cardboard. Of course, this looked like a very strange coincidence, on the face of it. I don't know what your experience of coincidences is—but mine is that they usually aren't.

Anyway, I took the trouble to trace out the times, and I finally established beyond a shadow of doubt that I had pinned the hair out on the photograph between four and a quarter past on a particular day, and that Matthews had had his funny attack on the same day at about a quarter-past four. That was something like a coincidence. Next, the idea came to me to try it again. Not on poor old Matthews, obviously—he'd already had some—and, besides, he was a friend of mine. I know perfectly well that we are told to be kind to our enemies, and so on—in fact I do quite a lot of that—but when it comes to trying an experiment of this kind—even if the chances are a million to one against it being a success, I mean having any result—one naturally chooses an enemy rather than a friend. So I looked round for a suitable victim—someone who wouldn't be missed much, in case there happened to be another coincidence. The individual on whom my choice fell was the nurse next door.

We can see into their garden from our bathroom window—and we'd often noticed the rotten way she treated the child she had charge of when she thought no one was looking. Nothing one could definitely complain about—you know what your neighbour's affairs—but she was systematically unkind, and we hated the sight of her.

Another thing—when she first came she used to lean over the garden wall and speak our roses—at least, she didn't even do that—she used to pull them off their stalks and let them drop—I soon stopped that. I fitted up some little arrangements of fish-hooks round some of the most accessible roses and anchored them to the ground with wires. There was Hell-and-Tommy the next morning, and she had her hand done up in bandages for a week.

Altogether she was just the person for my experiment. The first thing was to get a top room practicing, double stop photograph of her, so the next sunny morning, when she was in the garden, I made a noise like an airplane out of the bathroom window to make her look up, and got her nicely. As soon as the first print was dry, about eleven o'clock the same night, I fastened the plait of hair across the forehead with two pins—feeling extremely foolish, as one would, of course, doing an idiotic thing like that—and put it away in a drawer in my workshop.

The evening of the next day when I got home my wife met me and said: "What do you think—the nurse next door was found dead in bed this morning." And she went on to say that the people were quite upset about it, and there was going to be an inquest, and all the rest of it. I tell you, you could have knocked me down with a brick. I said: "No, not really. What did she die of?"

You must understand that my lady wife didn't know anything about the experiment. She'd never have let me try it. She's rather superstitious—in spite of living with me. As soon as I could I sneaked up to the workshop drawer and got out the photograph, and I know you won't believe me, but it doesn't make any difference—when I unpinned the plait of hair and took it off there a clearly-marked brown stain right across the nurse's forehead. I tell you, that did make me sit up, if you like—because that made twice—first Matthews and now—now.

It was rather disturbing, and I know it sounds silly, but I couldn't help feeling to blame in some vague way.

Well, the next thing was the inquest—I attended that, naturally, to know what the poor unfortunate woman had died of. Of course, they brought it in as "death from natural causes," namely, several burst blood-vessels in the brain; but what puzzled the doctors was what had caused the "natural causes"—also, she had the same sort of mark on her forehead as Matthews had had. They had gone very thoroughly into the theory that she might have been exposed to X-rays—it did look a bit like that—but it was more or less proved that she couldn't have been, so they frankly gave it up.

Of course, it was all very interesting and entertaining, and I quite enjoyed it, as far as one can enjoy an inquest. Obviously the matter couldn't be allowed to rest, there—it was much too thrilling. So I looked about for someone else to try it on, and decided that a man who lived in the house opposite would do beautifully. He wasn't as bad as the nurse, because he wasn't cruel—at least, not intentionally—he played the fiddle—so I decided not to kill him more than I could help.

The photograph was rather a bother, because he didn't go out much. You've no idea how difficult it is to get a decent full-face photograph of a man who knows you by sight without his knowing. However, I managed to get one after a fortnight or so. It was rather small and I had to enlarge it, but it wasn't bad considering. He used to spend most of his evenings up in a room practicing, double stop photograph of her, so the

I went up to my workshop window, which overlooks his, and waited for him to begin. Then, when he'd really warmed up to his job, I just touched the plait across the photograph—not hard, but—well, like you do when you are testing a bit of twin flex to find out which wire is which, you touch the ends across an accumulator or an H.T. battery. Quite indefensible in theory, but invariably done in practice. (Personally, I always use the electric light mains—the required information is so instantly forthcoming). Well, that's how I touched the photograph with the plait. The first time I did it my bloke played a wrong note. That was nothing, of course, so I did it again more slowly. This time there was no doubt about it. He hastily put down his fiddle and hung out of the window, gasping like a fish for about five minutes. I tell you, I was so surprised that I felt like doing the same.

However, I pulled myself together, and wondered whether one ought to burn the plait or not. But there seemed too many possibilities in it for that—so I decided to learn how to use it instead. It would take too long to tell you all about my experiments. They lasted for several months, and I reduced the thing to such an exact science that I could do anything from giving a goat a headache to killing a man. All this, mind you, at the cost of one man, one woman, lots of wood-lice, and a conscientious objector. You must admit that that's pretty moderate, considering what fun one could have had with a discovery of that kind. Well, it seemed to me that, now the control of my absent treatment had been brought to such a degree of accuracy, it would be rather a pity not to employ it in some practical way. In other words, to make a fortune quickly without undue loss of life.

Wants Million For Health Lost in Jungle

EDWINA
BOOTH

Charging that her health and career were ruined as the result of negligence on the part of its agents, Edwina Booth, "White Goddess" of the film "Trader Horn," is suing the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation for $1,000,000 damages. The actress asserts that while enroute to Africa she was compelled to expose her almost nude body to scorching tropical sun to acquire the coating of sun tan in keeping with her role of wild jungle girl. And during the actual filming of the picture was directed to run through sharp jungle weeds and grasses that inflicted painful injuries on her bare flesh. Since her return from Africa, Miss Booth has suffered from a mysterious tropical disease that, so far, has baffled Western medical science.

ROOSEVELT AND THE WORLD'S GOLD

Let us, therefore, assume for the moment that Washington will pursue this new policy prudently. And we can all wish it success, since the raising of the price level is as much a British as an American aim. We cannot, however, over look the fact that if the policy is pursued immoderately, it would raise problems for us as well as for the gold countries.

Supposing, to take an extreme case, that the dollar were depreciated until it reached the relation, let us say, of six dollars to the pound.

Clearly in that case our own British authorities, finding that the country's export trade was seriously harmed, would be bound to take whatever measures they could not with the purpose of hostile retaliation, but as a matter of compulsory self-defence.

Mr. Roosevelt is fighting a grim battle against economic forces. If he wins, his victory will help us all. Let us, therefore, not leap to violent criticisms of each new weapon that he uses, even if that weapon seems to us dangerous or out of date.

There were those who expected American purchases of gold abroad to start yesterday. Of course, they did not, because the method of operating any purchases has not yet been decided. It may be that purchases will start on a small scale quite soon, through existing agencies, such as American banks in London.

In that case, presumably the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would issue bonds which it would sell for dollars. Those dollars it would change into sterling, and with the sterling gold would be bought in London. It has been suggested that the purchasing might start in Amsterdam. In that case, of course, dollars would travel via guilders into gold.

If big-scale purchases are in prospect it would not be surprising to find that a Control Fund was set up financed in the same way as our own Fund, namely, by the issue of Treasury Bills.

Need For The Spectacular

London's chief puzzle is to make out why Mr. Roosevelt is embarking on this course at all. There are in America vast resources of money and credit, and enormous powers for increasing them. His problem is to induce people to use this money and credit to buy goods. That is the surest way to raise prices.

RUGBY

the trip were G. Elias, who was captain of the team originally selected. A. K. Kennedy, R. Booth, and K. Harris (Sydney), E. Dunlop and Pearson (Melbourne) and T. Keeble (Sydney) who was first reserve. Westfield, Mackey, Clarke, and Vincent were State representatives this season. Players omitted who were strong candidates for the four include the Sydney three-quarters, E. Shepherd and R. Rankin, and the full back D. G. Leggett. The selectors preferred Clarke and Vincent as centres, and Hayes' excellent matches won him a place. Rogers owes his inclusion to his versatility.

Mr. R. A. Martin, president of the Sydney University Rugby Union Club, and chairman of the council of the New South Wales Rugby Union, will be manager of the team, which will leave Sydney at the end of December, and return in the middle of March.

Colony Lose Star Forwards

The Colony fifteen will be chosen from the Club, the Navy, and the Army for the game, and competition is likely to be very keen. I understand that H.M.S. Suffolk will be out of port on the date fixed for the game and this will rob the Colony of the two brilliant. Navy second row forwards—Lt. Evans, the English International, and Lt. Nixon, the Navy "cap." Mid Darley will be another absentee.

It is yet early to select a team for such an important match, but the following seems to be the best available at the moment:

Lt. Buckley (Navy); G. P. Lamont (Club); Lt. Curry (Navy); Lt. Slater (Navy); Lt. St. Clair Ford (Navy); Lt. Miers (Navy); Lt. Forbes (Navy); Lt. H. Bradford (Club); Lt. Lister (Navy); Lt. C. P. Paine (Navy); Cpl. Hardy (Army); Pte. Lloyd (Army); Pte. Walters (Army); D. McLellan (Club) and G. A. Stewart (Club).

will stimulate the confidence which will not money and credit into circulation.
To London eyes it seems a forlorn hope. In Washington, perhaps, it looks very different. We shall see.

One could, of course, work steadily through the people one disliked, but it wouldn't bring in anything for some time.

I mean, even if you insure them first you've got to wait a year before they die, or the company won't pay, and in any case it begins to look fishy after you've done it a few times. Then I had my great idea: Why shouldn't my process be applied to horse-racing? All one had to do was to pick some outsider in a race—back it for all you were worth at about 100 to 1, and then see that it didn't get beaten.

The actual operation would be quite simple. One would only have to have a piece of cardboard with photographs of all the runners stuck on it—except the one that was to win, of course—and then take up a position giving a good view of the race.

I wasn't proposing to hurt any of the horses in the least. They were only going to get the lightest of touches, just enough to give them a tired feeling, soon after the start. Then, if my horse didn't seem to have the race well in hand near the finish, I could give one more light treatment to any horse which still looked dangerous. It stood to reason that great care would have to be taken not to upset the running too much. For instance, if all the horses except one fell down, or even stopped and began to graze, there would be a chance of the race being declared void.

So I had two or three rehearsals. They worked perfectly. The last one hardly was a rehearsal, because I had a tennor on at 33 to 1, just for luck—and, of course, it came off.

However, it wasn't as lucky as it sounds. Just outside the entrance to the grand stand there was rather a squash, and as I came away I got surrounded by four or five men who seemed to be pushing me about a bit, but it didn't strike me what the game was until one of them got his hand into the breast-pocket of my coat.

Then I naturally made a grab at him and got him just above the elbow with both hands, and drove his hand still further into my pocket. That naturally pushed the pocket with his hand inside it, and under my right arm, and I squeezed it against my ribs, for all I was worth.

Now, there was nothing in that pocket but the test tube with the bit of hair in it, and the moment I started squeezing it went with a crunch. I'm a bit hairy about the next minute because my light-fingered friend tried to get free, and two of his pals helped him by pushing me over the head. They were quite rough. In fact, they entered so heartily into the spirit of the thing that they went on doing it until the police came up and collared them.

You should have seen that hand when it did come out of my pocket. Cut to pieces, and bits of broken glass sticking out all over it—like a crimson tipy cake. He was so bad that we made a call at a doctor's on the way to the police station for him to have a small artery tied up. There was a cut on the back of my head that wanted a bit of attention, too. Quite a nice chap, the doctor, but he was my undoing. He was, without doubt, the baldest doctor I've ever seen, though I once saw a balder alderman.

When he'd painted me with iodine I retrieved the rest of the broken glass and the hair from the bottom of my pocket and asked him if he could give me an empty bottle to put it in. He said, "Certainly," and produced one, and we corked the hair up in it. When I got home, eventually, I looked in the bottle, but, apart from a little muddy substance at the bottom, it was empty—the bit of hair had melted away. Then I looked at the label on the bottle, and found the name of a much-advertised hair restorer.

ANGLO-RUSSIAN TRADE.

Britain Striving For Early Agreement.

London, To-day.
Colonel D. J. Colville, Secretary for Overseas Trade, yesterday stated that the President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Walter Runciman, would make an announcement on the subject of Anglo-Russian trade as soon as the negotiations, now taking place, were completed. He could not yet say, however, when that would be.
Further questioned, Colonel Colville said that progress was being made, and every effort would be used to bring the discussions to completion as early as possible.—British Wireless Service.

BRITISH WARNING TO FRANCE

Minister Of Commerce Going To London.

DISCRIMINATORY DUTIES TO BE DISCUSSED.

London, To-day.
A message from Paris states that the Minister of Commerce and Industry in the new French Cabinet, M. Laurent Eynac, will shortly visit London to discuss with the President Board of Trade, Mr. Walter Runciman, questions relating to the discriminatory duties against British goods.

Mr. Runciman last week announced in the House of Commons that, unless these were discontinued, counter-measures would be taken.—British Wireless Service.

Komen testified that he had been called from his restaurant by some one and, on reaching the sidewalk, Wright assaulted him. Komen said that his torn ear required nine stitches. Wright, admitting the charge, said he had become enraged at Komen for making derogatory remarks "about the 'Blue Eagle'."

WATER SUPPLIES TO RURAL AREAS.

$1,000,000 Allocated By British Treasury.

London, To-day.

The Minister for Health, Sir Hilton Young, informed the House of Commons last night that the Exchequer had placed $1,000,000 at his disposal to assist local authorities, where necessary, in the provision of better water supplies in rural areas.

From this amount grants would be made towards the cost of schemes initiated within the next few years.—British Wireless Service.

HERR HITLER LOOKS AGAIN AT AUSTRIA

The Austrian version of the Reithimwink incident, was published in the "Mitte Zeitung", on Saturday. The newspaper declares that a group of Austrian border police were suddenly surrounded by 200 Nazi "Storm Troops", on Austrian soil. Fearing an attempt to make them prisoners, the Austrians fired. One of the Germans was killed.

The Austrian Government are investigating the affair.
